HORTONVILLE FAIR TO SET NEW RECORD

Entries to Date Show That Record List Can Be Expected
at Opening

Hortonville—Judging from the early entries that are pouring in, Mrs. William Klein, secretary of the Outagamie-co Agricultural society says that the crops, pens, stalls, exhibition buildings, overflow tents and open spaces will be filled on Sept. 8, the opening day of the Hortonville fair.

Crowding of exhibition space on the Hortonville grounds this year and previous years is partially due to the fact that Hortonville is the hub of one of the most productive agricultural, manufacturing and commercial districts in Wisconsin, that the premium list of the fair is very comprehensive and generous and that producers in this territory believe in showing their products to the public as one means of finding a market for surplus.

The reputation of the Hortonville fair for invariably having large, excellent displays, amusements for young and old and outstanding free acts usually fills the grounds each day the fair is in session.

3 PERSONS EXAMINED AT FREE CHEST CLINIC

Only three persons attended the free chest clinic sponsored by the Appleton Woman's club at the clubhouse Saturday afternoon. Dr. C. D. Boyd of Riverview sanatorium was the examining physician.

OPENING OF SCHOOL INTERRUPTS HARVEST

Hundreds of children who have been picking beans on farms near Appleton were halted in their work with the opening of school Tuesday morning. Farmers have gone out each morning in some localities to pick up the young workers.

The children probably will continue picking on Saturdays as long as the season lasts, it was reported.

Seek Stolen Car

Police here are on the lookout for a 1927 model Essex coach stolen from West Antigo at 11 o'clock Monday night. The automobile had five new Lee balloon tires and there was a red Indian blanket and a tan overcoat in the car at the time it was stolen. License number of the car is C173-924; motor number 674,234; and serial number 682,993.

Committee Holds Meeting

The first meeting of the city club executive committee was held at 4 o'clock Wednesday afternoon at the Y. M. C. A., according to John W. Purh, club leader. Discussion of a plan of club reorganization will be the most important business. The date will be set for the first regular fall meeting of the entire club. Clement Steidl is president.

STAGE And SCREEN

BRINGING UP FATHER

"Bringing Up Father in Politics," the latest musical comedy triumph based on the famous George McManus cartoons will be the offering at the Appleton Theatre tonight. The field is a new one for the beloved characters of these world-famous comics and the millions of admirers of "Tiggs," "Maggie," "Dinty" and the rest of the Mahoney clan will have another opportunity of seeing their favorites in the flesh. From all accounts the offering, which is in two acts, is the best of the series thus far. A large and capable cast is employed.

A beautiful mosaic of the North, "Back to God's Country," starring Renee Adoree, is coming to Fischer's Appleton Theatre Thursday and Friday.

Every scene of this spectacular outdoor picture is a cameo-like unit in this splendid example of the motion picture art. And here is a cue where motion pictures do rise to a fine pictorial and dramatic art.

Renee Adoree again proves that she is one of filmdom's leading stars. She is a remarkable actress and possesses a pert and fascinating French personality which fits in well with her French-Canadian role in this Universal production.

Robert Frazer is equally deserving of praise for his successful efforts in a difficult part. Mitchell Lewis, whom we have long known as a deep-eyed villain, plays a sympathetic role in this picture and does astoundingly well, proving that a good actor can essay any type of characterization. Walter Long glowers and plots well as the unscrupulous ship captain.

The production as a whole is a triumph of direction with credit for this going to Irvin Willat, the man who has made more big productions in his career than possibly any other director.

James Oliver Curwood has served up a story which is an intensely dramatic tale of the snow country, whirlwind in action and arousing in emotional power.

Mayor And Chief Unite To Urge More Driving Care

"Be careful!" Police and civic authorities Wednesday joined in making that plea after one of the worst weekends the city and county has ever seen, insofar as accidents are concerned.

"Drive as though every driver on the road but yourself is a fool," Mayor A. C. Rule, chief of police, said. "Then you will use caution enough so that it will not be your fault if an accident occurs."

Other advice given by Chief Prim was: "Drive fast enough so that you will not delay traffic. The greatest menace on the roads today is the slow driver. Other motorists will try to pass him and it is at such times that accidents occur."

"Do not drive at an excessive rate of speed."

"Do not drive at a high rate of speed in trying to pass a car. Another automobile might come from the other direction and if you are driving at a very fast pace, it is hard to stop the car quick enough to avoid an accident."

"Bicycle riders should comply with the law and carry a light at night. A few days ago a boy was injured by an automobile and it is possible the accident would have been avoided if the youth had carried a light, as the law demands."

Mayor A. C. Rule stressed that while a motorist may have liability insurance that will protect him from suits filed by the other motorist in case of an accident, yet that same insurance does not keep him from suffering broken bones, cuts, or even fatal injuries in an accident.

"Parents could help to make driving safer," Mayor Rule said, "if they would refuse to let their children drive for a stated period after the youthful driver had been in any sort of an accident or broken any traffic law."

"There are too many of these young people that have too much enthusiasm and not enough good sense."

CONSERVATION BOARD DISCUSS DIGEST OF LAWS

Madison—(AP)—The state conservation commission is holding another one of its organization and inspection meetings here Wednesday. Plans for helping private land owners grow forests will be discussed, in line with the new commission's policy that the forest problem is the most pressing and will lead further toward solution of the whole conservation problem.

The major part of the meeting was expected to be devoted to discussion of a probable explanatory digest of the state's forest and forestry laws. Such a digest would be sent to prospective forest growers and foresters, for their guidance in entering lands under the new forest tax act.

Mrs. Emma Tennie, Mr. and Mrs. John Tennie, Mr. and Mrs. Charles Klitzke have returned from a visit in Chicago.

Here's a New Idea for Your Informal Parties

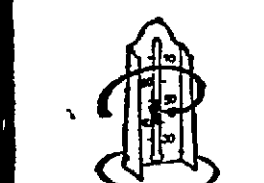

Guests may enjoy your entertainment, but they remember the refreshments you serve. Isn't it true that an unusual repast has been the crowning event of the parties you have enjoyed most? Kelvinator will help you make your parties events to be remembered. Kelvinated foods are unusual.

Think of serving dainty chilled salads instead of the ordinary ones. Think of cooling your beverages with cubes of sparkling colored ice. Imagine preparing sherbets, frappes and other frozen delicacies in your own refrigerator.

Let Kelvinator help you the next time you entertain. Telephone us—we will send a Kelvinator man to tell you exactly how.

The ZONE of KELVINATOR

Kelvinator chills a refrigerator by means of a "freezing unit," which goes right into the ice chamber. It can be quickly and easily placed in any good refrigerator. This unit keeps the air in the refrigerator constantly cold, always below 50 degrees—the danger mark to proper food preservation. This sort of crisp, dry cold is called the Zone of Kelvinator.

The Cabinet Kelvinator The Cabinet Kelvinator is a compact refrigerating unit for use in homes and apartments. It is Kelvinator and refrigerator, all in one. Requires only a electrical connection. Made in two sizes, state beautiful models. Ask to see them.

WASHINGTON HOME IS VISITED DAILY BY MANY COUPLES

Model Residence of Girl Scouts Called "Most Livable Home in America"

BY RODNEY DUTCHER
Washington—Massive public buildings, the treasury, the army and navy building, legations and embassies, Red Cross headquarters and stately art galleries almost bury a little house which is the mecca of thousands of brides and grooms on a wedding trip in Washington.

A breath of the arbutus of New England or the moors of Nantucket hovers about the little green and white shingle house, its pained and tattered doorway, and its welcoming knocker.

The little house is the national girl scouts' headquarters. It was donated to the girl scouts by the National Federation of Women's Clubs, who built it for demonstration week in their famous Better Homes movement.

The little house is modeled after the boyhood home of John Howard Payne, author of "Home, Sweet Home."

President Harding called it "the most livable home in America."

IDEAL HOME
Brides and grooms at the rate of 50 couples a day have made a beaten track up the walk, and gratefully pay their hostess, Mrs. Gertrude L. Bowman, a quarter for the privilege of walking through this dream home of their own.

The quarter goes into the girl scouts' own family ginger jar!

The little house should be built for about $7000 in any part of the country, the hostess says.

It has a fully equipped basement,
a living room, a dining room, reception hall, breakfast nook and kitchen on the first floor, three bedrooms, a nursery and a bath on the second floor.

Furnishings are entirely in the early American design. Spriggy, chintzy wall paper covers almost every room, and restfulness is the home's keynote.

NICELY FURNISHED
"The brides," laughs Mrs. Bowman,
"rave about the furniture and the wall paper, while the grooms go down cellar to inspect the heater."

The house is furnished for $3000. As one enters the front door the little reception room shouts welcome with its sprigged wall paper, oval oriental rug, mahogany drop-leaf table and winding stairway of white steps with mahogany rail.

The dining room, to the right of the reception hall, has a refectory table, Welsh dresser, sideboard and upholstered chairs in early English design. Pewter and willow plates are on the dresser, and electric refrigerator and silver candlesticks on the sideboard. The rug is of taupe velvet.

This room cost about $575.
The living room is 26 by 15 feet.
It, too, uses a figured two-tone gray paper and plain taupe rug. A post-Colonial design sofa in brown mahogany and satin, and the baby grand piano are the only really big pieces in the room. A secretary desk,
Windsor chairs, and Colonial tilt-

SUPREME COURT TO HAVE BUSY SESSION

Madison—(AP)—The state Supreme court which goes into formal session next Tuesday Sept. 13, has 50 cases on its first call. All of these save two, which are for re-agreement from previous calendars are on the August 1927 calendar.

The court is meeting until further notice on the weeks in which regular arguments are held at 2 o'clock Monday afternoon, instead of Tuesday mornings.

Arguments are held at 2 o'clock Monday on cases argued under the September 13 call, are expected to be handled down about the middle of October.

REAL KITCHEN
"Brides are amazed at a real kitchen," says Mrs. Bowman. "But the ideal home must have one."

"The kitchen wall is covered with a washable covering, the floor is covered with cork linoleum, there is a double drainboard, gas stove with oven regulator, pressure and fireless cookers, work table on rollers, refrigerator filled from the outside, clock, metal waste basket, long-handled dust pan, stool and linen and paper towel-racks.

"I believe that these newlywed pilgrimages to the little house are making finer homes over the entire nation," says Mrs. Bowman.

MENASHA'S MAYOR CALLS HALT UPON CITY'S SPENDING

Says Improvements Have Been Needed but There Is a Limit for Expenditures

Menasha—With a deficit of $52,136.15 in the general fund, Mayor N. C. Remmel took occasion at the monthly meeting of the common council Tuesday evening to call attention of the aldermen to the condition of the city finances.

"There is a limit," he said, "to how far we can go. It is an easy matter to spend other people's money. It is true we do not want to go back to the life we lived 25 years ago. We do not want to go back to wooden shoes.

"We want to live within our means and hence, gentlemen, we have to stop spending. Finish the work now in hand, but accept no new work. I want you to go slow. You cannot legislate people out of their homes. It is true that people say Remmel is the great spender in town. I will say that he has made the most improvements of any man in town.

"It is not how much we spend, but how wisely. You have spent this year more than $100,000 on sewers and streets. You have also spent more than $35,000 on water mains. It behooves me as mayor to give you from time to time a little advice as to how much money to spend."

The mayor called attention to some of the improvements that have been made within the last four years starting with the fire department with its additional paid men, new equipment and new quarters and going on down through the list of new pavements, new sewers, new water mains, new school buildings and new police station. Next year a new bridge will be added, he said.

The mayor also informed the aldermen that owing to changes in the law no income tax will be available the coming year, and the industrial school will get no funds from the state for the next 18 months. In speaking of taxes he said they were the highest last year they ever were and probably will never be as high again. He commended property owners for paying them so willingly.

A new agreement between the Wisconsin Michigan Power company and the city of Menasha concerning the removal of the company's trolley poles was presented by the company and was referred to the committee of the whole.

Alderman Anton Brezinski, president of the council, took the chair following a short recess. Mr. Palmer addressed the council relative to the necessity of removing the old boat houses on the river front and cleaning up that portion of the city. The matter was referred to the city attorney to investigate and report.

Complaints against the railroad companies relative to noise in switching and on the blockading of crossings in the vicinity of Tayco-st and other parts of the city were discussed at length. The street committee was finally appointed to take the matter up with the different companies before taking any action. It was brought out that Neenah is annoyed in the same manner and the advisability of taking joint action in having the switching done elsewhere was suggested. An adjournment was taken until 2 o'clock Thursday afternoon.

CHANGE IS NEEDED IN CIVILIZATION, FITZPATRICK SAYS

Educator Declares Education Must Remedy Defects in Present Social Work

Los Angeles, (AP)—Civilization "is a race between education and catastrophe and it is by no means certain that education will win," said Dr. Edward A. Fitzpatrick, dean of the graduate school, Marquette University, Milwaukee, Wis., in an address before the National Conference in Catholic Charities here today.

Quoting the expression from an international publicist, he said that "social work must continue to remedy the evils of an imperfect civilization until education can build the foundation of a more perfect one."

"Catastrophe certainly will be the result," said the Wisconsin educator, "unless we can change the character of our education. Unless our politics, our economics, our amusements and our education improve the quality of human life, the multiplication of the comforts and conveniences means nothing. We waste talent, we waste genius, we waste opportunity. These victims of social organization are frequently the victims of wrong education, of misguided education, of perverted family life, or the teeming life of the slums, or of the vacuous life of wealth. I choose to think of the possibilities of catching these people early enough and giving them genuine educational opportunity."

"Our politics are as pugilistic as our economics and if anything, more so," Dr. Fitzpatrick asserted. "Our economic life," he said, "is characterized by great energy and great productivity in its immediate goal, but wasteful in its social by products and missing possible higher social objectives."

SHORT SKIRTS STAY FOR ANOTHER SEASON

W. W. Frank, Back from Buying Trip, Says Black Is Outstanding Fall Color

Short skirts will continue to be the style for at least another season, according to W. W. Frank of the Fair Dry Goods Co., who returned last week from a buying trip to Chicago and New York. Mr. Frank attended the sessions of the Interstate Merchants' Council in Chicago and also several style shows, portraying the newest of the coming fashions.

In women's dresses, black will be the outstanding fall color, Mr. Frank said. Other important dress colors will be maroon, green, and malaga red. Crepe satin is the fabric most often used for dresses, a charming contrast frequently being obtained by using the reverse, or crepe side, for trimming. Velvets, flat crepes and canton crepes follow.

Your Question And Its Answer

By J. A. PANNECK, D. C.
Palmer Chiropractor

QUESTION: What percentage of your cases get well under chiropractic Adjustments? I have been informed thru my friends that a large percentage of pronounced incurable cases by the old school of doctors, respond to your new method—namely Chiropractic. I would like to know what percentage do get well? Please explain.—M. H.

ANSWER: The chronic cases approximately 60 per cent, and acute cases 95 per cent. The forty percent of chronic cases that were pronounced incurable under the old methods, are cases that have been experimented upon to the extent that the disease within the body has progressed so it is impossible for Nature to repair it after the cause has been corrected under Chiropractic. That is why in the acute cases Chiropractic has a 95 per cent record. If the old methods or the old school of doctors would cure their acute cases, so to speak, there would not be any chronic cases. This proves that medicine is a failure. Thus Chiropractic has been established thru success in mastering these chronic ailments, to wit: such that were classed as incurable by the old school of doctors.

In some sections the public as a whole, as yet, are not aware of the fact that Chiropractic is efficient in acute diseases—such as Flu, Pneumonia, Bronchitis, Measles, Scarlet Fever, Whooping Cough, Appendicitis, Colds, etc.

If you do not understand how Chiropractic can accomplish health restoration I will be glad to explain fully.

PETITION REMOVAL OF PIERCE-ST MAIN

Workmen laid concrete on Lawrence Court Tuesday, after completion of the Pierce-ave concrete work. Work of laying asphalt over the concrete on Pierce-ave is now underway and probably will be completed Friday.

Petitions will be presented to the city council at its meeting Wednesday night, asking that workmen remove the gas mains on Pierce-ave from the center of the boulevard to line parallel with the gutter and adjacent to it, in order that property owners can plant trees and shrubbery in the grounds between the curbing and the sidewalk.

Crepe satin in popularity. Favorite trimmings are jeweled buckles and rhinestone ornaments. Wool jerseys, wool crepes, kasha-like fabrics and fine wools are used for wool cloth dresses.

The nude tones still prevail in women's hosiery. With the skirts shorter and shorter, it is important that the silk come well above the knee. Skirts appeared a little longer in Chicago than in New York, Mr. Frank said.

New York did not appear as crowded as usual, Mr. Frank said. Fifth-ave between Forty-fourth and Fortieth-ave at 10 o'clock in the morning and Thirty-fourth-ave between Broadway and Fifth-ave at noon, seemed to have fewer pedestrians than College-ave on any bright afternoon. While away Mr. Frank purchased late styles in women's and girl's coats for the new coat department which the Fair store is just opening.

Mr. and Mrs. Frank and daughter, Virginia, visited Mr. Frank's parents in New York city. Mrs. Frank and daughter will remain in the east for two weeks, visiting her mother, Mrs. Priestly in Pennsylvania.

ANNUAL HOMECOMING IS HELD AT MADISON

Early History and Accomplishments of Labor Shown in Great Exhibit

Madison (AP)—The second annual "home coming" of the Wisconsin State Historical Society was held Sunday and Monday in the historical library on the University of Wisconsin campus.

The homecoming is principally an exhibit, the purpose of which, this year, was to stress the early history and accomplishments of agriculture and labor in Wisconsin.

The early instruments of Wisconsin's first engineers formed an exhibit that attracted those interested in the geology and topography of the state. The surveyors tools of Silas Lapham, the state's earliest engineer, occupied an entire case in the exhibition rooms.

The craftsmanship of the hardy pioneers and of the early Wisconsin women was retold visually through exhibitions of tapestries, drawings and art work when Wisconsin was young. Most of it was the handiwork of women, done after they had helped their husbands and fathers at hard work during the day.

Although the written evidences of former events are sometimes not as interesting as exhibits of the articles handled by the pioneer, the manuscript census of the exhibition proved attractive to the hundreds who attended. The society has spent several years in collecting farm censuses with years between 1840 and 1880. More complete census for the years 1840, 1850, 1860 and 1870, compiled by government authorities are in the society's files. Those attending the full descriptions of every bit of agricultural lands in the state, for the exhibition were able to ask an attendant to find them any portion of land that has been under cultivation in those years. The number of cattle, buildings and improvements on every farm are given.

More than 350 persons were in the museum during the "homecoming" last year, and although no specific count was made this year, it is expected that an even larger crowd was in attendance.

A RELENTLESS FIGHTER

The death of Wayne B. Wheeler, general counsellor of the Anti-Saloon league of America, removes from public life a great controversial figure. Wheeler's methods have been the subject of attack and denunciation for years, but whatever may be said for or against them from an ethical standpoint, the fact remains that they were effective and that they made the Anti-Saloon league one of the most powerful political organizations ever formed. It may be that the charge that the league has usurped functions of government and that it is a pernicious public influence has foundation, but we must keep in mind in passing judgment upon both it and Wheeler that it was engaged in a fight with forces which have never known the meaning of the word "moral," whose interference in the political affairs of the nation is a mountain of crime compared to an ant-hill of misdeeds that may be assessed against their virile adversary.

The campaign for prohibition was staged by well-meaning men and women. In the battle with the liquor traffic they represented the better side of American life. There is no question about this. They may have been misguided in their zeal for national sobriety, and the eighteenth amendment may be a mistake, as we believe it is, but they were guided by praiseworthy ideals. Nothing of the sort can be said for the liquor interests, nor for that element in the main which sought to preserve and protect the liquor traffic. It was a corrupt and vicious business and it struck at the vitals of government as well as of society.

When it became a question of which should survive, prohibition or the liquor business, those who believed in prohibition were justified in using fire to fight fire. Everyone knows that the liquor business buys legislators and public officials whenever and wherever possible, that it intimidates the authorities and the law, that it connives with criminals and crooks, that it stops at nothing to gain its ends. The question, therefore, arises, whether in all fairness the Anti-Saloon league was not entitled to use those shrewd, if at times doubtful, practices which get results in politics. What is sauce for the goose is sauce for the gander.

The fact that the Anti-Saloon league outplayed and out-strung-armed the liquor forces is to our mind more to its credit than to its dishonor. When it becomes a case of dog eat dog, the better dog survives. We don't like the Volstead act, but we dislike far more the organized liquor traffic as it existed before the eighteenth amendment, as it now exists in the form of bootlegging and lawlessness, and as it is certain to exist if it is restored to its old time privileges. Therefore, we think the Anti-Saloon league has done a great good notwithstanding all that is said derogatory to it and its methods.

For a cleverness and efficiency which out-Hannibal Hannibal himself, Wayne B. Wheeler was responsible. He had an extraordinary capacity for organization and the control of men, both in the executive and in congress and legislatures. He may have been deficient in idealism, but as a practical politician and machine builder he had few superiors. He knew how to get results and that was the thing that counted. He was both feared and hated by his foes, but he was equally feared and hated by his friends. He was relentless to the end. Mr. Wheeler made a name for himself in connection with prohibition, that will always be associated with that movement whatever its fortunes.

THE COURT'S DELAY

Professor Wesley A. Sturges, of the Yale School of Law, in commenting at New Haven on a survey made under his supervision, declared himself of the opinion that lawyers themselves are largely to blame for the overcrowded condition of the courts. Procrastinations of the bar and its traditions of professional courtesy are considered as important factors.

"As human beings," Professor Sturges says, "and perhaps also as a class, lawyers are prone to procrastinate, and this often without regard to whether the parties they are representing are plaintiffs or defendants. Delays from this source occur both in reaching issues on the pleadings and in pressing cases to trial. Indeed according to the opinion expressed by several clerks of court, the chief cause for delay in the progress of litigation in those courts is the lack of initiative, or at least of aggressiveness, on the part of attorneys in pushing their cases to trial. Coupled with this tendency to procrastinate are the traditions of professional courtesy, which practically compel counsel to grant continuances and extensions of time to their opponents, even though they themselves are anxious to hasten the disposition of the case. No doubt the tendency to procrastinate is more or less inevitable, and the same is probably true of the traditions of professional courtesy. Still it would seem that the effect of these factors might be lessened considerably if stricter rules were adopted in regard to granting continuances and extensions of time, such as the requirement of a written application setting forth the grounds on which the postponement is requested. Improvement might also be effected by changing the present method of assigning cases for trial, the whole scheme of which seems conducive to habits of delay."

While there are other contributory factors, delay seems chiefly up to the bar and the court and it is a question of "summary judgment," in use in England since 1883, and being used by New York as a means of speeding up litigation, is not a wise procedure for our courts to adopt.

DEFENDING AMERICAN INFERIORITY

America will be brave and strong, indeed, if she does not develop a severe case of inferiority complex, what with all the foreign sneers and jibes at her "total lack of tradition and culture," her gaucheries, et al. and et cetera.

An occasional glove thrown into the ring by a champion of America is therefore refreshing. Fannie Hurst, teller of tales, and a lady of no mean parts, threw her feminine glove into the ring of late, and, though mantling curtness in clever words, practically said that all the to-do about American inadequacies is a story trumped-up by those who are jealous because we have a little spending money.

Lady Fannie says, among other pertinent things—
 "The old French fruit dealer who will cut a grape in half until the scales balance, is a 'quaint.' The fruit dealer in America who will throw in a bunch for good measure is a low creature who has become 'Americanized.'"
 "Our half-literate population, torn hither and thither by the great nickelodeon Everyman's University, has more pep de vie, more intellectual curiosity, earns a better living wage, and is generally noisier about his undesirabilities than any illiterate population in the world."

Those who come back from abroad sickened by the millions of itching palms thrust at them everywhere might add to Lady Fannie's analysis that we have a pride, too, which works for wages and not for "tips," the largess of Lord and Lady Bountifuls.

OLD MASTERS

A song to the oak, the brave old oak,
 Who has ruled in the greenwood long;
 Here he stands and looks on his broad green crown,
 And his life seems so strong.
 There's a fire in his heart when the sun goes down,
 And the fire in the west fades out;
 And he sighs as he looks on a wild midnight,
 When the moon shines his branches bright.
 —Henry Wadsworth Longfellow: The Brave Old Oak.

With Ed. Alfred Howard, the skipper and a two-time state champion, as the helm, a 100-foot schooner, the "M. J. Howard," was completed on 1927.

Naval and military parties are expected to be in the city for the first time in the history of the old city.

Several other parties have been given in the city, but none have been as successful as the one given by the "M. J. Howard."

The "M. J. Howard" is a very fine ship, and it is expected that it will be a great success in the future.

WHAT HIVES ARE MADE OF

Nettle rash is the old name for hives. Urticaria is the medical name for hives. Urticaria is a family of plants having stinging hairs on the leaves. Some hives are just little baby hives, scarcely more than mosquito bites. In fact, a mosquito bite is a typical hive, the only difference between the mosquito bite and the hive proper being that we usually know exactly what produced the mosquito bite. Take bedbug bites—oh, boy, there's a baffling problem, for mystery lovers—how often a crop of bedbug bites masquerade as hives! But aside from the difficulty of detecting and apprehending the culprit, bedbug bites are just nothing at all to speak of when one considers caterpillar rash. A caterpillar differs from a member of the Urticaceae mainly in distributing ability. Get a lively caterpillar under your shirt and you'll break out with hives for miles around, the caterpillar having a million hairs and every hair a stinger. All of these irritants are proteins, whether of vegetable or animal origin.

Numerous food proteins will produce hives when they are eaten by individuals who happen to be sensitized. We are not yet able to explain this sensitivity, but we know a little about it and we will know all about it when the right young thinker comes along to straighten out the tangle and bridge the gaps in our present knowledge. We know that various animal and vegetable proteins (nitrogenous compounds) are likely to produce hives or asthma or some similar disturbance if they find their way into the blood undigested or through other portals than normal digestion. Thus any serum injected under the skin is likely to cause more or less trouble of this kind.

But we're waiting for the genius or student to explain why certain individuals break out a fine rash if they take the least bit of quinine, salicylic acid (as in "aspirin"), opium, chloral, senna (present in scores of "herb teas") or various other medicines, as do so often.

We are not so puzzled when patients develop hives after indulging in cheese, lobster, mushrooms, fish roe, strawberries, oatmeal, pickles, honey, nutmeg or a dozen other good foods. They are "sensitized," they have an "idiosyncrasy," or else some part of the digestive process has slipped a cog and so the offending protein has passed through into the blood incompletely digested.

As a do-it-yourselfer, we start treatment with brisk cathartics, say a bottle of effervescent citrate of magnesia, or any form of salts preferred. Then a "low" diet, which is also rather mean, for a day or two—the less food the better. If the stomach misbehaves the least bit the patient had better take half teaspoonful doses of prepared chalk or 10 grain tablets of calcium carbonate every two or three hours. If the stomach is quiet probably better to take a mild laxative, such as calcium lactate or calcium chloride, 20 to 30 grains of either with a glassful of water, three times a day for a few days. If the stomach resents this, why, don't insist, but tiddle back to the chalk or calcium carb.

For relief of the itching the well known calamine lotion is excellent—zinc oxide and calamine, each half ounce, borax and glycerin, each 2 drams, lime water 6 ounces and 5 per cent phenol solution (it is 20 carbolic acid, the strongest carbolic acid solution druggists may legally sell without prescription), 2 ounces. Shake well, and dab on the skin with the hand, as often as necessary for the itching.

 Please give me the name of a good disinfectant and deodorizer for an outdoor toilet. (A. M. E. C.)
 Answer—Unscented lime, on a milk of lime freshly prepared every third day—lime slacked with enough water to give a thin cream.

 Recently there was a government doctor going around from town to town, supposed to be kind of a magician who heals the sick in a few hours.... (Mr. M. E.)
 Answer—Short, sharp sessions, eh? That's the way some suckers like to be treated. Other people prefer to be bamboozled on chalk, on a milk of lime freshly prepared every third day, on a milk of lime freshly prepared every third day—lime slacked with enough water to give a thin cream.

NAPOLEON'S LEAGUE OF NATIONS

In "Napoleon," the biography of a native Italian (Crosica was Italian) leader of the French legions, emperor of the greater part of Europe, a biography moreover that was written by a German, Herr Emil Ludwig, and became a best seller in its translated form in America—in that book the curious thesis is developed that Napoleon anticipated Woodrow Wilson in his league of nations and was aiming at a league of nations in Europe. Napoleon did not call it a "league of nations," he usually called it the "United States of Europe." The young republic in America was about a quarter of a century old and it was well enough established so that in 1812-14 it could win a war against England. It looked like success in spite of the hostility of monarchial Europe. So it was natural for Napoleon to apply the analogy to Europe and speak of a possible "United States of Europe."

He employed the term quite a few times in the course of his life. He spoke quite naturally of the "United States of Europe" that ought to be developed. Especially toward the end of his career, when his dictatorship was crumbling, when he was losing his hold first on the nations that he had conquered and then finally on France itself, he dreamed of a confederation of European states in which his own supreme lordship would be replaced by a constitutional government. When his hopes of passing on his own son the Napoleonic dynasty faded, he dreamed of making Europe a unit by having it follow the American plan.

He saw that the curse of the continent was the narrow nationalism that split it up into many small states each working only for itself and each better for Europe to be under one head, each nation a part of what amounted to one great nation.

Henry Seldel Canby, commenting on Ludwig's biography, suggests that he has greatly overemphasized this feature of Napoleon's program. The great leader often spoke of the "United States of Europe." Canby admits but that was quite different from having in mind as a definite program of his life what today would be called a league of nations. The analogy to the American experiment would quite naturally find an echo in the words of a man like Napoleon who always thought in continents. Canby suggests that only a post-World war writer would have presented it as a definite thesis.

Granting that the fact remains that Napoleon thought in terms of Europe, not in terms of a single nation. He probably did not aim at a league of nations as we understand the term today but he seems to have grasped the fact that what was going on in America should be taken to heart by the European nations, that a large number of small nations all pulling against each other are much weaker than that same group all working under a single program.

Napoleon's league of nations was essentially that of a hard-headed realist. He would never have understood or had any faith in Wilson's fourteen points or in the present constitution of the league of nations. His idea during most of his life was that the European countries must be compelled to join hands—the natural idea of a born dictator. Italy and Germany and Holland and Austria must be forced to yield up their own nationality. What matter if they have German traditions and a German language or Italian traditions and an Italian language? They must all be forced to work for the good of all instead of for the good of separate states.

Napoleon's league of nations worked to some extent for a few years, but only so long as he could enforce his will. It was built on force and it fell apart as soon as force failed.

The present league of nations is largely built on idealism. There is no guarantee that it will work any better or last any longer, but it is at least different. One type failed, the other type is being tried. Whether idealism can conquer the narrow nationalism that has its roots in the centuries is still on the knees of the gods.

DAILY HINTS FOR HEALTH

DOES BAD WEATHER CHEER US UP?
 EDITOR'S NOTE: This is the last of a series of five articles on suicide.
 BY DR. MORRIS FISHBEIN
 Editor Journal of the American Medical Association and of Hygieia, the Health Magazine
 A noted psychiatrist said that an Italian finding himself in difficulty takes steps to kill the third angle to his triangle. Under similar circumstances, the Scandinavian is likely to commit suicide.
 An analysis of the race factors involved in suicide in the United States permits the investigator to draw certain general conclusions. In our population, Irish, Italian and Polish immigrants show a slight tendency to suicidality, whereas Germans and Scandinavians manifest a pronounced tendency in that direction.
 As previously pointed out, the negro commits suicide far less frequently than does the white man, the Indian slightly less frequently, and the Chinese far more frequently. In our population, the white man is the most frequent suicide, the negro the least frequent. The two races coming to this country or mingling with the white race.
WEATHER AND DISEASE
 Much has been said of the relationship of the weather or of disease to the occurrence of suicide. The suicide rate is higher in the northern countries than in the southern countries. The two hottest months, July and August, are not the months of highest suicide rates. In the United States, the line that marks the development of the suicide rate from its lowest to its highest point draws from New York city or Boston to San Francisco. The east end of the line is noted for its cold and disagreeable weather and for bad winters. The lowest suicide rate is in the region which talks most about its climate and about being a land of eternal sunshine and yet it is the place of most frequent suicide.
 In practically all cases where it is possible to gain some understanding of an individual's previous emotional state, depression is mentioned, as almost invariably present. If mental depression may be taken as a sign of mental disease, then one-fifth to one-third of all suicides are mentally diseased. It is perhaps safer to say that mental depression may be considered a danger signal.
RELIGIOUS ANGLE
 Practically all religions have disapproved of suicide. It seems reasonable to believe that unbeliever and the atheist are more likely to commit suicide than the person who believes in a future life full of possible punishments. The statistics seem to indicate that the dread of punishment beyond the grave is a potent and prevalent preventive of self-destruction.
 In Europe, the suicide rates are higher for Protestants than for Catholics. It is perhaps safe to say with Dr. Frenay that the race and temperament of the people and the economic conditions must be taken into account before passing judgment on the greater or lesser tendency to suicide.

See-Sawing On Broadway

By Gilbert Swan

New York—Of all the scrambled woes faced by the Broadway actor, no situation is more disheartening than that of having to appear after the first night in a play which obviously is doomed to quick failure.
 If he is an actor of any perception, he senses—even at rehearsal—that he is working toward a hopeless end. His experience tells him that he will toil long hours learning his lines, go without sleep while enduring the tiresome routine of rehearsing—only to be back on the street a fortnight later looking for another part and doing the same thing all over again.
 Some hapless actors go through an entire season without the luck of finding a single vehicle that provides them with work for more than a few weeks. This is the fate even of some of the great stars. Last season, I remember, one of the major performers had to learn, rehearse and act four different roles within almost as many days. This is the stuff of which heartbreak is made.
 The routine is always the same. The rising curtain... The sense of futility... the obvious coldness, or indifferent politeness of the opening night audience... the feeling of failure at the final curtain... the hasty glance at the critical reports in the morning papers... the inevitable panicking and procrastination of an early closing... the necessity of returning the following night with all the cast looking downhearted... and yet going through with the play, just as though you believed it had a chance...
 It is not roses and sweetness on Broadway!

Those persons who wonder what celebrated actors do offstage can here be assured that, at this particular moment, when the new theatrical season is launching and performers are rushing in from all parts, they are exactly like a flock of college-gals gathering again on the campus after a vacation.

There is much shoulder patting, much handshaking, much bantering, boisterous shouting and laughing and gossiping.

There is lot of—"Hello, there, Joe! What have you been up to?"

Much: "Where you been all summer? What you going to play in? How about the Shakespeare revival?"

In the Players' Club and the Lambs, the hot boys, who have been loitering away the summer hours, again spring into action. Hats are tossed about, calls greet each new comer, the lobbies and dining room and reception halls fill quickly. Reminiscences pass about, quips and wit flash back and forth. Pool balls click again in the billiard room, someone suggests a game of poker. Now and then a few celebrants, who have been sampling the town's speakeasy stocks, come rollicking in.

The entire atmosphere recalls the opening of a college semester... with group-ups and gray-haired boys as participants... men whose names are household words, but who now assume all dignity in the infectious spirit of camaraderie.

WISCONSIN WEATHER

Shows probably tonight and Thursday; not much change in temperature.

WEATHER CONDITIONS

The pressure is high over most of the eastern portion of the country this morning, with fair weather. Low pressure areas over the plain states and Intermountain region are becoming active, with scattered areas of showers over portions of the plain states and upper Mississippi valley section. Showers have fallen over most of Wisconsin and more showers are expected in this section tonight and Thursday as the centers of the low pressure are still west of here. High pressure and cool weather is reported over the northern Rockies this morning as the "low" moves eastward and this may extend its influence to this section by the end of the week.

MORE GAME REFUGE LAND PUT UNDER U. S. CONTROL

Winona, Minn.—(P)—Ten thousand additional acres of Mississippi river bottom lands in Wisconsin were added to The Upper Mississippi Wild life and Fish refuge Wednesday, as the result of the third large approval made by Governor Fred Zimmerman. This approval places 40,000 acres of the river bottom lands in Wisconsin under the control of the federal government.

The new approval includes choice wild fowl and fish spawning in Buffalo, La Crosse, Crawford, Vernon, and Grant counties.

At the same time, Supt. W. T. Cox of the refuge, announced an additional approval of 6,000 acres by the Iowa governor which gives the government control of 18,000 acres in Iowa. The new approval puts more than 50 per cent of the 166,000 acres of river bottom lands, that come within the boundaries of the refuge, under the control of the wild life refuge.

The refuge extends from Wabasha, Minn., to Rock Island, along the Mississippi River and is the center of the new Minn-Wis-Sippi region of Minnesota, Iowa and Wisconsin. Actual administration of the lands by the federal government will be launched during the duck hunting season this fall. PAVING MATERIALCall Another Meeting to Award Contracts for Paving Eight Streets

Kaukauna—Contracts for paving eight streets on the south side probably will be awarded at an adjourned meeting of the city council to be held at 7:30 Friday evening in the council chambers of the municipal building. This was decided at a regular meeting of the council and the final public hearing on the pavement at the municipal building Tuesday evening. The discussion centered around the probable life of two pavements. Warrentite bituthulite and plain concrete. About sixty citizens were at the meeting.

Following a hurried transaction of routine business Mayor W. C. Sullivan opened the discussion of the pavement and it did not take long before the discussion was heated and involved. Alderman E. R. Landreman warned the paving representatives they would not be permitted to make an attack on any individual or the council as a whole and any representative who did so would be forcibly ejected from the room by the chief of police. With that warning Mayor Sullivan suggested that the hearing open.

A comparison of prices between Warrentite bituthulite and plain concrete was read. The prices quoted were for a running foot and were as follows: Dixon-st. bituthulite, $2.23; concrete, $1.17; Sixth-st. bituthulite, $3.23; concrete, $1.46; Metoxen-ave. bituthulite, $3.61; concrete, $1.55; Seventh-st. bituthulite, $3.57; concrete, $1.54; Reame-ave. bituthulite, $3.65; concrete, $1.55; Main-ave. bituthulite, $3.58; concrete, $1.55; Eighth-st. bituthulite, $2.84; concrete, $1.41.

It was maintained by representatives of both companies that the prices were for a complete job and included stone that might have to be hauled or excavating necessary to meet the grades on the various streets.

Alderman George Smith explained to the taxpayers and council that the plain concrete was eight inches thick and that bituthulite was held two inches over the present macadam roads. He believed this did not put the two competitors on a fair basis in regards to price as the Joseph McCarty Construction Co. of this city was offering eight inches of pavement while the asphalt representatives were selling only two inches.

William Bohan, representative of the Portland Cement association, said, "If the Warrentite people sell $1.40 for a square yard of their product on a comparative basis we should get $5.50 for we are giving you 4 times as much pavement."

Alderman W. H. Cooper asked J. Van Alstyne, representative for the Warrentite people, if his pavement wouldn't dry out where the traffic was light and Mr. Van Alstyne said it would not.

Mr. Bohan said that in a great many spots, in fact on most of the streets, the macadam roads were worn out and the clay was coming through. He asked if it would be advisable to put $1.40 top on a base in that condition and then have the pavement sink away in a short time. Various taxpayers claimed that the macadam bases were from 16 to 24 inches thick on their respective streets.

Mr. Cooper said he believed that in Kaukauna where there is much quick sand and many frost boils it would be more advisable to pave with concrete. He believed the concrete would bridge any hole which might form under the pavement.

The Warrentite representative was asked why Appleton was repairing a street with concrete. Instead of the same asphalt with which it was originally paved. Mr. Van Alstyne replied that Appleton was foolish to repair with concrete and that the street department there realized its mistake now.

William Smith, a Sixth-st. taxpayer, said one of the aldermen told him "You are going to have concrete on Sixth-st. and nothing but concrete." Mr. Smith said that he looked at the things were "fixed" and he wondered why it was necessary to hold a public hearing if the council wasn't going to listen to the property owners when the majority of them preferred the asphalt type of pavement. Louis Brewster asked the mayor why the people couldn't vote on the pavement they wanted same as in Appleton and other cities. Gordon Mulholland, a Dixon property owner, asked the council "If it's all fixed why don't you tell us the type of pavement we're going to have?"

Mayor Sullivan told these present that the council was a responsible body and would be held responsible for the success or failure of the pavement. He said each alderman was elected from his ward by the majority of the people and that the taxpayers of the city should have confidence in the ability of the alderman to choose the right type of pavement.

Alderman Landreman said that Mr. Smith took quite a slap at him as he had made a similar statement a short while ago but he assured the taxpayers they would be heard. Mr. Smith then said he was not referring to Alderman Landreman and now he knew there were two who made that statement. Mr. Smith said "There happens to be another alderman in the Third ward and he made the statement to me."

IN HIGH SCHOOLBoard of Education Decides to Increase Book Rental by 50 Cents

Kaukauna—Tuition for non-resident students in Kaukauna High school was increased from $2 to $3 at a regular meeting of the board of education Tuesday evening in the high school offices. All students not living in the city of Kaukauna will pay tuition. The board also decided to raise the book rental from $2 to $2.50. L. F. Nelson, president of the board, reported that the Park school building is in first class shape. A standard color has been chosen for all decorating purposes in the building. In past years every room in the building was painted a different color. New lavatories for boys and girls have been installed and are of the most modern design. One of the boilers at the Park school is being rebuilt and it is the intention of the board to rebuild the other one next year.

The playground apparatus at the Park school was reported in bad condition, particularly the teeter-totter and the climber. The former will be replaced and the latter repaired, the board decided.

Two members of the board, L. F. Nelson and James McFadden, inspected the plumbing at the Park school building on Monday.

The flag pole on top of the Park school tower will be taken down. A report was made to the board that the pole is old and decayed and is liable to topple over.

APPLETON SQUAD PLAYS TWO BALL GAMES OVER WEEKEND

Locals Invade Sawdust City Saturday And Play At Kimberly On Sunday

Double Win Will Place Brautymen in Flag Race Again if Green Bay Loses

The Appleton baseball club of the Fox River Valley League will be able to show local diamond fans whether it really is trying to get somewhere in the loop race over the coming weekend when it plays two games against leading teams of the circuit. Appleton showed the makings of a real ball club when it whipped Neenah and Green Bay Sunday and Monday to the Oshkosh for third place and a continuation of this play Saturday and Sunday will find the Brautymen on the heels of the Bay and Kimberly and really in the flag race yet.

Saturday the locals meet Oshkosh at Oshkosh in a postponed game and the teams now are tied for third place so that the knot will be broken. The squads are very evenly matched and have put on some "wow" battles this year to keep the crowds on their toes. Both usually slug the ball hard against the other. Neenah's slowball probably will try to tame Appleton now that he is back. Getzen and Schneider have not fared so well against the local sluggers while Roehrick of Kimberly got away with a two-hit game on his foster.

Sunday, the ancient Kimberly rivalry is resumed at Kimberly and Appleton will have its final opportunity to break a jinx that has kept it from winning a K-C game this year. Two wins coupled with a Bay loss would put the Brautymen a game and a half from second and about two from Kimberly in first.

Hurling selections have not yet been announced but Appleton's left hand slugs may be used against Kimberly as every other local twirler has been treated roughly by the Cookemmen this year. Boyle showed plenty of stuff in his last two Appleton games. He always has had that, but his wildness spoiled it. However, against Green Bay he hit a single pass to first. He might be effective against the K-C murderer's row, which is partly composed of left handers such as Boots Lamers and Squaw Pican.

Then Refke would be the probable hurling choice against Oshkosh as he looked good against Neenah last week, with Crowe in reserve. The visiting sluggers should Orv be ineffective.

PIRATES HOLD TOP BY BEATING CINGY

Giants Keep Pace. A Game Behind, With 17th Win in Last 20 Games

Winding up their final home stand, during which they won 17 out of 20 games, the New York Giants were speeding west Wednesday for the first of several series that will have to do with the pennant chances of the club. The slugging New Yorkers Tuesday beat the Boston Braves, 6-0. The Giants left New York without Manager John McGraw who is suffering from erysipelas.

Pittsburgh held on to first place and a one game margin over the Giants by beating Cincinnati, 6-0. St. Louis and the Chicago Cubs were to have played a double header Tuesday but it was postponed. The game after the world's champions had won the opener, 13-1. The St. Louis victory lowered the Cubs into fourth place. McCarthy's club has won only one of the last nine games played.

RENEW HOMER DUEL
Renewed activity in the Ruth-Gehrig home run duel occupied the American League spotlight at Boston when the Yankees played a double header with the Red Sox. More than 25,000 fans saw the Bambino pound out his forty-fifth, forty-sixth and forty-seventh home runs of the season. Gehrig delivered his forty-fifth in the fifth inning of the first game which the Yanks won, 14-2. Ruth made two homers in this game and knocked the next in the ninth inning of the second game, which went to Boston 5-2.

Washington and the Philadelphia Athletics divided a double header. The Nats slugged out a 14-9 win in the first but Eddie Rommel's knuckle ball brought the A's in with a 4-0 decision in the winder.

Barrett's home run brought in a 2-6 victory for the White Sox over Detroit.

Gaston pitched the St. Louis Browns to a 1-4 win over Cleveland.

Gophers, Ohio, Purple, Picked As Title Rivals

Madison — Minnesota, Ohio and Northwestern are named by Glenn Thielthwaite, Wisconsin football coach, as the three teams who will battle it out for the title in the Western Conference and race this fall. The Eastern conference, the Gophers, an edge over the other two schools, at the same time producing an excellent chance for a tie for first place.

"Minnesota should lead the Big Ten this fall," says Thielthwaite. "Not only have they a great array of material and a coaching staff of veterans, but their schedule is also all in their favor." The "Gophers" were encountered in arranging his 1927 schedule, continued the coach, "but with their better game, the Northwestern battle, late in the year."

Thielthwaite said when the Northwestern game was over, the most crucial in the year was to be played on October 1 at Columbus. "The winner of the Ohio State Northwestern game will have a splendid chance to complete their schedule undefeated," said the Wisconsin member. "I feel that both to

AIDING GIANTS

HEINIE MUELLER

Should the New York Giants sneak in and grab the National League pennant, and they're well within hailing distance of the top now, much of the credit will go to Heinie Mueller, reserve outfielder and pinch batter. Mueller has not appeared in many games, but his hitting as a pinch bat has won quite a few of 'em for the Giants this year. He was formerly with the Cards.

AD WOLGAST SENT TO PATTON ASYLUM

Former Lightweight Champ Still Trains for Bout With "Phantom" Foe

Los Angeles.—Only shadows of long past glories lurked Wednesday in the mind of Ad Wolgast, one time lightweight boxing champion, as arrangements for his confinement in an insane asylum were being completed. But the shadows were as realities to the former fistling king, whose excellent physical condition evidenced his conscientious training for a phantom bout that would usher in his ring "comeback."

To the unbalanced mind of the 39-year-old veteran of the prize ring, confinement at the asylum was but an opportunity to train unhindered for the fight that never is to be. Tuesday he listened to the words in Superior Court that were to send him, perhaps for the remainder of his life, to Patton asylum, Wolgast smiled happily and said:

"I'll be ready to fight in two weeks. They won't let me do enough road work around here. I'm going up in the mountains and fool the bunch." While in splendid physical shape, the mind of the "Michigan Bearcat" wandered into the past. He was declared hopelessly insane, the result of a general paralysis of the brain. He has trained daily for a mythical fight with Joe Rivers, Los Angeles. Sports writers attributed Wolgast's condition of the last few years to the terrific punishment fighters in the day of his prime were accustomed to take in the long and grueling bouts.

Wolgast won the title from Battling Nelson in 1910 after 40 rounds, in which both took a terrific beating and which ended only when referee Eddie Smith stopped the fight.

He held the title for about two years and his victories included a knockout over Joe Rivers in 1912. He lost the crown to Willie Ritchie in the fifth round about a short time after the Rivers battle.

Several Want Sister
There is sure to be spirited bidding for the services of George Sisler when the star first sacker of the Browns is said to be anxious to land him. Sisler is still a most capable performer.

Smith Now Coaching
"Sherry" Smith is about through as a regular pitcher with Cleveland. He has spent much of his time this year as third base coach and done a good job toward earning his salary.

When queried as to the strength of Michigan, Glenn Thielthwaite, Wisconsin football coach, as the three teams who will battle it out for the title in the Western Conference and race this fall.

The Eastern conference, the Gophers, an edge over the other two schools, at the same time producing an excellent chance for a tie for first place. "Minnesota should lead the Big Ten this fall," says Thielthwaite. "Not only have they a great array of material and a coaching staff of veterans, but their schedule is also all in their favor."

SCHLAFFERS WHIP CAM-SCHULZ MEN, CLAIM CITY TITLE

Hardwaremen Take Rubber Game of 3-game Series from Clothiers, 7-2

Another team entered its claim to the 1927 Appleton city championship Sunday when the Schlafers Hardware Club squad took the odd games of a three-game series with the Cameron-Schultz squad, 7-2, and will claim the title if they win the C-S men are claiming. The C-S loss was its second in 13 games as it had won 11 straight before dropping to the Hardwaremen and then it dropped another Monday to the Kaukauna Cubs at Kaukauna.

Three teams now claim the local title. The C-S men claim it on the second, which includes wins from every team in the city and only the two losses to the Hardwaremen. The Hardwaremen have been beaten several times but still claim the bunting by beating the C-S claimants, two of three. The United Stars say that the C-S men beat them in the city title game with pros in their (C-S) lineup.

Niles, pitching for the Hardwaremen, allowed the Clothiers five widely scattered blows while Bruggeman and Mayeske were touched for seven. Several of which were bunched. The C-S men scored first when Herb opened the third frame with a single to left and went all the way to third when the ball rolled down a line. He scored on Harry Horn's sacrifice. Two errors and a error on Hub Horn's hopper scored another in the fourth. Schlafers' evened the count in the fourth on two errors and Marx's hit. The sixth was the big frame for the Hardwaremen. The first man walked and three successive singles drove over two runs and sent Bruggeman to the showers. Niles scored the third run of the inning on a passed ball and Laabs added a fourth on Marx's sacrifice. Two more hits in the eighth brought the final run over. The losers threatened in the ninth, when Mayeske opened with a single to center and took second when Helms let the ball go by him. The next batter lined to short and the third out popped Niles, sending Mayeske to third, but Niles put on steam and fanned the next batter.

FREEDOM BREAKS BLACK CREEK JINX BY 4 TO 3

The Freedom team of the Wolf River league broke its Black Creek jinx, beating the Creek team Sunday, by the score of 4 to 3. It was an interesting game with the breaks about even. Freedom took the lead in the first inning when Tornow poled a homer. Freedom held a 1 to 0 lead until the fifth when Black Creek rallied on four hits and sent three men home. In the seventh Freedom led the score when with a man on second and third, Brockhouse at second base took a slow hit and heaved it wild to first allowing both men to score. Freedom again took the lead in the eighth when B. Metoxen hit to right, stole second and third and came in on a long fly to center.

Black Creek threatened again in the ninth getting a man on second and third with one out, but Metoxen of Freedom fanned the next batter and the following man flied out to short to end the contest. Freedom plays at Black Creek next Sunday, and a win for Freedom will clinch the flag in the league as the season ends Sept. 25. Freedom is two games ahead of Nanana, which plays the Shiloh crew.

CUT ON EYELID FORCES CHAMPION TO TAKE REST

Lake Villa, Ill.—(AP)—A tiny split on Gene Tunney's right eye led him to the heavyweight champion's training Wednesday and threatened to keep him from the practice for almost a week. Relieving that the cut must be allowed to heal completely, rather than risk further damage close to the date of Gene's return battle with Jack Dempsey, Sept. 22. Manager Bill Gibson called off the boxing program for Wednesday and Thursday.

Just when the title holder will resume boxing will be determined later. In the meantime Gene will confine his training to shadow boxing and road work.

The accident to the titleholder's eye occurred in practice with Chuck Wiggins Tuesday. Chuck was showing exceptional speed and aggressiveness when he suddenly struck Tunney's forehead in a clinch. Elbow swept immediately from a wound about an inch long.

Tunney refused to discontinue work for the day despite the accident.

Tony Ross, Pittsburgh, lost to Shifty Dando, Columbus (10).

EARL BAKER LEADS IN GUN CLUB PRACTICE

Earl Baker of Appleton, and William Nash, Sr., and Phil Nash, Neenah, had the best records of shooters of the Appleton Angling and Shooting Club, Inc. in a practice shoot held Monday at the club grounds on the Neenah road. Eight men from Appleton and Neenah took part. Baker broke 61 targets of 75. William Nash, Sr., broke 53 of 50, and Phil Nash had 18 of 25. The scores were considered good as none of the men had shot a gun since last fall. Mark Catlin also was present but he did not shoot.

The scores:
Earl Baker, Appleton 75 61
Rev. J. A. Holmes, Appleton 75 58
William Nash, Sr., Neenah 50 33
Mark Catlin, Appleton 50 21
William Van Order, Appleton 50 20

BADGER ATHLETIC EQUIPMENT FIXED

Card Gridders Advised by Coach to Expect Scrimmage on First Day

Madison — With scarcely one week remaining before the Big Ten grid camps seethe with activity, the all-important "Shorty" Bartz, Wisconsin's athletic equipment guardian, is hard at it, digging the mole skins out of moth balls. The diminutive Badger football haberdasher must be ready to supply the boys with all necessities on the 15th.

"Shorty" is an institution on the Wisconsin campus. He takes great pride in his treasure of equipment store away under the stands of Camp Randall stadium. He is ever busy evolving novel stunts in padding equipment and for some time he made himself a valuable cog on the Cardinal football staff.

Final instructions have been mailed by Coach Thielthwaite and Captain Crofoot to exactly 90 candidates, and "Shorty" will be set to clothe this record turn-out next week. In his last word to the Badger squad, Coach Glenn has ordered the men to place themselves under strict training rules immediately.

The opening day's rehearsals will go hard with the men who are not in shape. "You may expect signals and a scrimmage the first day," reads the new Badger mentor's letter. The 90 candidates ordered to report for drill next Thursday include 11 letter men. These were: Capt. Crofoot, Rose, and Kresky, backer; Cameron and Welch, ends; VonBremner, Schutte, Wagner, Wilson, Connor and Sykes, linemen.

Fifteen reserves from last fall are included in the 1927 roster. These boys, a half dozen of which saw service in some of the conference games a year ago, are: Shaw, Mansfield, Burbridge, Bartlett, Barr and Hall, backs; Hotchkiss, Pierson, Thelander, and Stuckey, ends; Schweers, Binish, Eves, Gotsstein, Hagemeister and Horwitz, linemen.

The balance of the candidates are players from last year's frosh squad, and recruits, who were otherwise ineligible for varsity competition in 1926.

STAR CLEVELAND PROS SEEK WISCONSIN GAMES

The Cleveland Panthers Professional football team of the late American League of Professional Football Clubs, is reorganizing for the coming season.

The Panthers is the leading road team in the middle west and it is coached by Tiny Potter, former V. J. college star. Last season the Panthers made a very excellent record defeating such well known teams as the Red Grange's New York Yankees, George Wilson's Wildcats and Rock Island team headed by Duke Slater, famed All-American. Panthers also beat the American League.

Due to the disbandment of the American League last year and unable to get into the National League of which they have a number of limited teams this year the Panthers are forced to play all road games from Cleveland this season. Any manager wishing to book a first class attraction in this vicinity may do so by writing or wiring booking manager, G. T. Jones, 3554 East 149th St., Cleveland, Ohio.

Boston—Honey Boy Finnegan, Boston, defeated Babe Herman, California (10).

Tommy Armour Seeks To Take Walt Hagen's Crown

Chicago.—(AP)—Seeking further open honors in golf, Tommy Armour of Washington, newly crowned Canadian and American open champion, will seek to wrest the Western Open championship from Walter Hagen of Los Angeles, the 1926 winner of the Olympia Field Country club along with virtually the whole field of contestants who lost to Armour at Oakmont.

In view of Bobby Jones' more recent spectacular performances in the British open, where he won with a record score of 253, and the national amateur, which he played even more brilliantly in most of the way and won the event for the third time. Golf supremacy of the United States apparently can not be established in any tourney in which he does not compete. But, assuming that Jones might slump as he did in the National Open in seeking his third victory there, the western open contestants will include the cream of American golfers.

Harry Cooper, who lost a playoff to Armour in the national open, Chick Evans of Chicago, runner up to Jones

PROMINENT BOXERS JAILED IN OMAHA

Jack Johnson, Young Stribling in "Coop" When Ref Stops Mitt Bout

Omaha, Neb.—(AP)—Jack Johnson former heavyweight champion of the world, W. L. Stribling the "Georgia school boy" and Leo Diebel, of Oklahoma, woke up behind the cold gray bars of Omaha's city jail.

The three spent the night with police after the Stribling-Diebel bout was stopped by the referee in the sixth round and after Johnson announced to the 5,000 spectators that he could "knock out both Stribling and Diebel in two rounds."

The fight which was to have lasted 10 rounds was a slow affair throughout. Neither boxer seemed willing to take the offensive and referee Jimmy Drexel warned them three times not to stall. Finally in the sixth round he stopped the fight announcing that it was "no contest." When he had finished Johnson, who was in Diebel's corner, issued his challenge to the two fighters.

Police arrested the three men and took them to the police station where they were booked for "Investigation and held without bond for trial Wednesday."

Stribling said he hurt his hand in the second round and that this bothered him. Dr. Frank Lovely, police surgeon said that there was nothing to his story.

Young Stribling was indignant at being arrested.

Both Stribling and Diebel said they could not see why the fight was stopped an dthat they were doing their best.

Gaston Improves Hitting
Milt Gaston of the St. Louis Browns, always a pretty good pitcher, has developed into one of the best batsmen in the American League as far as hurlers go.

Value of Substitute
The value of a good extra infielder to a club was recently shown when with Marty McManus, subbing at short for Jackie Taverner, the Detroit club won 13 straight games.

In the recent amateur and winner of this title in 1919 when boy Johnny Farrell of New York who has won nearly a dozen titles this season. Macdonald Smith of New York, who won the "title two years ago, Gene Sarazen, Harry Hampton, Al Watrous and Jack Hutchinson, always dangerous and sometimes victorious, are among the leading entrants.

Armour will not only renew his feud with the other stars, but with the exacting course at Olympia Fields where he lost out to the Professional Golfers' championship two years ago because of the assorted hazards, solved victoriously only by Hagen.

If Armour or any of the others take the crown from Sir Walter's head at Olympia, they may have to hole out with their tee shots, assuming Hagen can repeat his shots of two years ago or duplicate the marvelous 278 by which he won at Indianapolis last year a stroke ahead of Harry Cooper and Gene Sarazen, who tied for second place, one stroke ahead of Macdonald Smith.

Kimberly Breaks 1st-place Tie With Win Over DePere as Chute Cops

SUNDAY GAMES

Little Chute at Freedom 9. Kimberly 11, De Pere 0. Wrightstown 17, Oneda 5.

Kimberly's up and coming ball players, who seem to enjoy nothing better than to upset dope, did a great favor for their neighbors from Little Chute Sunday when they tripped De Pere in an inter-county loop struggle, 11-4. The Kimberly win while the Chuters were wrecking Freedom, 9-0, broke a tie for first place in the league between De Pere and Little Chute, in favor of the latter crew.

Little Chute and De Pere had been tied for the top for about two months, except twice, and both times Kimberly was the dope breaker. A few weeks ago Kimberly beat Little Chute to give De Pere the top, but the next week the Chuters climbed back by a win as De Pere lost. Now Kimberly has done the same to De Pere to give Little Chute the highest rung alone.

The second win for Kimberly over a leader also aided that crew for it now has climbed to a game and a half from second to two and a half from the top. Wrightstown, who has been staging a real battle of its own with Kimberly for third place in the standing, clung to the heels of the K-C crew by a 17-5 slaughter of Oneda. The Wrights are half-game to Kimberly's rear as they were a week ago. The week before they were in third, a half-game over Kimberly.

Little Chute had eight hits to three for Freedom and was assisted by nine Freedom errors. The Chuters made three errors but Werley had the losers begging for mercy. Evers received his slants and B. Stegeman and Vandersten hurried for Freedom with Schommer catching. Kimberly only outdid De Pere six to three but the losers made six errors and the winners were costly to the losers.

Kelleman and McHugh formed the losing battery with B. Pican and Welhouse working for the winners. Wrightstown garnered nine hits to four for Oneda and had four errors. The Indians set a season's and perhaps all-time record for this part of the state with 17 errors. Kussow and Kusow worked for the winners with Swamp and Smith hurling for the losers and Moon catching.

RAIN CAUSES DOUBLE BILL FOR BREWS, MILS

Minneapolis, Minn.—A happy but rather tired group of Brewer athletes rested up here Tuesday for their labors over the weekend because of an all day drizzle that continued on into the night. They will, however, make up for the respite by tangling twice with the Millers on Wednesday.

Manager Leivelt stated Wednesday that he would lead his two able left-handers at the Kols in the twin frolic "Cannibal" Joe Eddie and Ossie Orvill. The former was slated for the slah Tuesday and the additional day's vacation will do him no harm.

Hard to Land Job
Ernie Nevers, former Stanford star, says he has discovered it is a more difficult job to win a pitcher's berth in the majors than to win a place on a college football team.

JACK LOCKWILL AT SUMMER CAMP

"Ha!" exclaimed Tom. "Jim Hatchett!" Then he explained to Jack: "He's my cousin. They see him, and think it is me." "This is where we hunt and trap," said Hatchett. "White boys come, over there. Bimeby white men come too, and soon there will be no game. I hate the whites, who think they are better than Indians! We have this one caught. What shall we do to him?"

"You will do nothing," said Longpine: "for he kept me from being whipped by the others." "The blood in your body has turned to water!" sneered Hatchett.

"Jim has been following me!" cried the Indian girl. "Make him keep away from me, Tom!" Her brother's eyes flashed. "Go away, Jim Hatchett!" he ordered.

Hatchett stood for a moment, staring hard at Tom. Then, without a word, he turned and walked away into the woods. "He's a bad actor, Longpine, old scout," said Jack. "He says he loves my sister." "This is she—my twin sister. She is called Twin Rose." "Well, speaking of names, that one fits like a glove," declared Lockwill, bowing to the girl. (To Be Continued)

GOLF COURSE DRAWS MANY NEW PLAYERS

Spring Lake Club Rapidly Becoming More Popular Throughout Community

Special to Post-Crescent
New London—Spring Lake Golf course, now in its second year, is no longer an experiment, but is now a recognized club of standing. This was pointed out by various members of the club who went over the course on Sunday and Monday, watching the constant coming and going of visitors and listening to the interesting comments of out-of-town golfers. Each of the two days showed that 21 persons paid green fees, in addition to the crowd of regular members.
No matched tournaments have been played, but the game is gaining in popularity here. Perhaps the oldest player who shows a real interest in the game is Elwood Lunde, who, though having passed the age of 75, shows splendid signs of becoming a second John D. In fact, Mr. Lunde answers frequently to that name as he is sighted by acquaintances on the course.
The recent rain was of great benefit to the greens which were badly in need of moisture.

This continuity has necessitated efficient organization and long views. It is one of the sources of strength of the Standard Oil Company (Indiana)—one of its secrets of service.

The Standard Oil Company (Indiana) is an organization of many thousands of men and women, changing in personnel slowly and inevitably with the years—but unchanging in high principle and steadfast purpose.

Thus it has been able to serve 30 million people with ever-increasing efficiency and ever-widening vision. Not by lucky accident has it won its place in their lives. The great position it holds today is the result of generations of steady striving, of earnest effort.

THOUSANDS ATTEND LEGION HOMECOMING AT CLINTONVILLE

Fifty Business Houses and Many Individuals Take Part in Parade

Special to Post-Crescent
Clintonville—Homecoming at Clintonville was a marked success. The weather was ideal, and a crowd of several thousand persons attended. Parking of the thousands of cars was so efficiently handled that not one accident was reported.

Assemblyman Adam Schelder of Manawa, made megaphone announcements, ranging from the next attraction to the sobbing, frightened little children who had been separated from their distracted parents. Several different times reunions were established in this way.

The parade in the morning was one of the finest ever held in the city. About fifty business concerns were represented by floats. In addition to these there were several cars decorated by individual owners, many demonstrations of new model cars, and others carrying city officials and representatives from five different townships. One section of the parade represented the evolution of the fire department of this city.

First came the original fire wagon of 1851, drawn by a span of four horses, driven by Mr. Campbell, with four of the first firemen still remaining, riding in it. Next came the second and much finer fire wagon drawn by two teams of horses, bearing the legend "Clintonville Fire Department, 1893."

This was followed by the present Fire Department consisting of the Four Wheel Drive fire truck and the chemical truck each labeled "1927." The parade was heralded by special Policemen George Lang and Albert Kaplingst, who opened up the way.

HAVE LIBERTY GODDESS
Dr. George Krugsack was marshal of the parade, which was headed by the Clintonville band, followed by the National guard and a beautiful float drawn by six dapple gray horses, bearing the Goddess of Liberty, represented by Miss Alma Schunk.

Then came Mayor Al Cather's car, the Nicholson band, and the following floats: Oscar Lentz, H. I. Schroeder, O. J. Tilleson, Menominee truck with clowns, Red Crown gasoline, Thielme Jewelry, Tribune Publishing Co., L. A. Heuer, Eddie Pine band, Milk company, George Spiegel's Electric shop, Krueger and Maul, Dairyman Gazette, Hazen Tire and Battery, Schauder Shoe store, Gerke and Grand, Schultz variety, Ada Bender's washing machine, Clintonville State bank, Interstate oil with two trucks, Clintonville Implement Co., Thompson dairy, Nelson grocery, fire department section of two wagons and two trucks, Studebaker, Dairy products, Dr. F. C. Walch in a car followed by a trailer with army First Aid camp equipment, Martin's fuel and hay truck drawn by eight horses, the Four Wheel Drive section consisting of two trucks, a tractor, a Snow Removal machine, an Earth Boring machine, the Wisconsin Power and Light section, a comic section, the Broken Drum cafe, Midland's Drug store, 1913 model Buick, various new model cars having local agencies, cars from the surrounding townships bearing chairmen and other officers and also a large number of local cars.

RENEW OLD FRIENDSHIP
The homecoming feature of the celebration was every where in evidence as thousands of people thronged into the park after the parade. Glad greetings were exchanged from group to group.

Mayor A. C. Cather in a brief address, extended a welcome, and then introduced W. A. Olen who gave an address which held the close attention of a large crowd.

Mr. Olen stressed the value of the park to the community and to the traveling public. According to records which have been kept over a period of three months, he said, 30,000 people had come into the park, 1,000 had slept there one or more nights, 200 automobiles had camped there and 100 had traveled through.

He referred to the fine record for service made by the American legion during the war, and that their aim was still one of service. "These men are not here to be entertained today," said Mr. Olen. "They are here entertaining you." He added that this celebration was not a money-making expression but that it was done for the community fellowship and betterment. He referred to the American legion as a "most dignified organization," and that in this community it had shown itself a builder.

The ball game between Tigerton and Clintonville resulted in a 10 to 12 score in favor of Clintonville. Up to the last half of the seventh inning the score stood 7 and 2 in favor of Tigerton, and then the Clintonville team began to play the game and retrieved their almost lost prestige.

CHINESE STUDENTS AT CONVENTION IN STATE'S CAPITAL

Reconstruction of China Will Be Main Theme of Annual Conference

Madison—(P)—Chinese students in colleges and universities of the middle west are here today for the eighteenth annual conference of the Chinese Students Alliance which opens tomorrow. It will continue through next Tuesday.

The conference theme is "reconstructing China," the students discussing abrogation of China's treaties which they call unequal, and "nationalism versus communism" in an effort to find a solution for their fatherland's troubles.

They maintain according to the conference handbook, that the destructive phase of the Chinese revolution is almost over. The task of reconstruction has been to claim our attention. The handbook further says:

"Little needs to be said about the Abrogation of China's unequal treaties. It is now the unanimous opinion of our people that these claims and shackles of our national independence must go. In the forum meetings, reports on every phase of the subject will be presented by experts, to be followed by open discussion. At the close of the conference, a manifesto will be issued declaring our firm stand on this question."

"The second question, the question 'Whether China Should Follow The Nationalistic Or The Communist Road,' is more highly controversial, and for that very reason, discussed carefully but open-mindedly. By 'nationalism' we refer to the ideal and program of action advocated by such nationalistic societies as Sing-Shih, etc., while by 'communism' we have in mind the stand taken by the Chinese Communist Party. Preceding open discussion, a series of impartial and unprejudiced reports on the theories and plat forms of the different parties will be presented. However, no resolutions regarding this question will be adopted in the conference. Our purpose is merely to acquaint our fellow students with the points at issue."

In order that the delegates may discuss the problems intelligently and in full, those in charge of the program have suggested that certain preparatory readings be carried on.

The conference is to be held on the campus of the University of Wisconsin, with university heads acting as sponsors and welcoming the delegates.

Athletic, oratorical and debate contests are to be a feature of the conference. A regular set of athletic contests in track and field, basketball, handball, tennis, and indoor baseball have been arranged, regulations score sheets issued and a set schedule worked out.

A daily newspaper will be published during the conference. Governor Zimmerman, Mayor Schmiedeman, Dr. Glenn Frank, president of the university and S. H. Goodnight, dean of men are the prominent speakers before the conference.

Milwaukee's treasurer gets $5,300; in both Madison and Racine he is paid $3,000. In Kenosha, where the offices of city clerk and treasurer are combined, the salary is $4,000.

"Sweet Adeline" Author Now Postal Accountant

BY HORTENSE SAUNDERS

New York—In the New York post office building, bending over a desk figuring accounts, is a friendly, rather stocky man with a shiny bald head.

You might suppose he had spent most of his youth and lost his hair worrying over figures—unless you saw his visiting card.

After a look at his card, the man takes on color and romance. Retrospection floods your brain. Summer nights beneath the moon, college nights, nights leaning over a polished counter with a foot on a brass rail, nights you couldn't sleep and yearned for a brick. The card—

RICHARD H. GERARD
1419 111th Avenue,
Jamaica, New York.

Author of
The World Famous Song
"Sweet Adeline"

Gerard long has used his pen for lyrics as well as for ledgers. He has co-authored many songs, but never got into the spotlight with a bang until he and Harry Armstrong produced that national anthem of the inebriated, "Sweet Adeline."

SHE'S 25 NOW

Adeline now is 25 years of age. She seems much older at first thought. Our Adeline, according to Gerard, was puny and unhealthy in her early years.

Had her babyhood been less anemic, Gerard might today be riding in a limousine instead of modestly taking the subway home every night. He been estimated that Adeline sold 50 million copies. But Gerard got only $4000.

"At first it seemed to go about like lots of other songs," Gerard explained, "just so-so."

"I held on for five years, then sold for three thousand. Already I had received a thousand in royalties. That's all I've profited on the most-sung song in the world."

Right here, with preferred blondes cleaning up in the market, let me say it was a brunette who inspired Sweet Adeline.

"I was a kid when I wrote it," Gerard recalled, "and in love most of the time. But the flower of my heart was a little black-eyed girl. Yes, sir, I did pine for her. She married another. The girl in the first draft of the song we wrote was Rosalie. Instead of Adeline, but just ahead of us another writer put out a 'Sweet Rosalie,' and we rechristened our child Adeline."

WHERE THE MONEY WENT
"With my four thousand I studied medicine, then tiring of that, I started up a music publishing business of my own."

The publishing business ate up considerable capital without affording much financial nourishment, so Gerard went into accounting. During the war he went to Europe with the Red Cross. On his return he went into his present job at the post office.

MEN OUTNUMBERED IN SUMMER SCHOOL

University of Wisconsin Summer School Continues to Show Steady Growth

Madison—(P)—There were 105 more students in the summer school of the University of Wisconsin this year than last, the total 1927 summer session number being 5,165 according to Miss Annie B. Kirch, statistician of the state school.

There were more than 1,000 more women students than men, 2,048 of the summer students being men and 3,117 being women.

In the college of letters and science feminine domination was by a ratio of 2,845 to 1,658. Two women were enrolled with 207 men in the college of engineering, and 5 women with 104 men in the law school. Women dominated in the college of agriculture with 217 to 78 men. The men students retailed by enrolling one male representative in the library school, fifth-order an exclusively feminine stronghold. There were 48 women in the library school.

There were 1,346 students in the summer session who also attended the regular term. More than half the summer session students were teachers, there being 2,567 in this classification. The summer school enrollments for the past four years show a steady increase: 1924, 4,772; 1925, 5,015; 1926, 5,000; 1927, 5,165. Although comparative figures are not now available, it is probable that the Wisconsin summer session maintained the rank it has held for the past several years—fourth largest in the United States.
